A warrior's tale

Anglo-Saxon hero Beowulf comes to the screen in a gripping fantasy drama

NEW FANTASY DRAMA

Beowulf

Sunday, ITV HD, 7pm

It's already being talked about as 'the new Game of Thrones', and ITV certainly has big ambitions for its 12-part fantasy epic Beowulf: Return to the Shieldlands.

The pre-watershed show, based on the famous Old English poem, is one of the most expensive dramas in the channel's history and has already been mapped out for five series before a single episode has been broadcast.

Set builders spent a long snowy winter building a period-perfect village from scratch on a remote Pennines site, a clear commitment to the future of the series. It's an impressive sight to behold, with the imposing Mead Hall at the centre, and various thatched-roof houses, waterways and a blacksmith's forge.

So can the drama live up to the hype? Well, it certainly starts in impressive fashion. Kieran Bew stars as the eponymous hero, who returns home to Herot after two decades in exile, to pay his respects to Hrothgar, the ailing Thane, or ruler, played by Hollywood star William Hurt.

But nobody is pleased to see him return, including his bitter childhood rival Slean, played by Downton Abbey's Ed Speleers.

'Beowulf was banished from the town as a young boy and there's unfinished business there,' explains Bew, who previously starred in Da Vinci's Demons.

'I broke three ribs with one of our very large stuntmen'

KIERAN BEW

'He is the classic hero – he's quite enigmatic with a lot of secrets, but he believes in honour and sticking to your word, which means he has to make hard decisions.'

It's not just humans Beowulf has to contend with. It wouldn't be a fantasy drama without battle sequences and sword fights, and the series includes all sorts of monsters waiting to pounce, from trolls and skinshifters to the terrifying Grendl.

It turns out that Bew, 35, a skilled fencer, was perfect for the job. 'I started fencing at the age of nine, and by the time I was 14 I was in the British squad,' he tells us. 'Later I got a job at the Globe theatre in London. I choreographed the fights for Mark Rylance when he played Hamlet and he would let me sit in on rehearsals.'

But Bew's fighting prowess didn't spare him from injury as Beowulf. 'I broke three ribs filming a fist fight with one of our very large stuntmen. It was my error but he felt very bad, bless him! We had to tailor some of the action scenes after that.'

Horse riding also proved to be a dangerous prospect for Bew. 'I wasn't a horse rider before, so I had to learn quickly. Galloping around with an actress on the back of the horse carries a certain amount of responsibility.'

Self-confessed geek Bew counts the role as a dream job and is committed to a possible five years on the show, if producers get their way. He promises that fans of fantasy are in for a real treat.

'Beowulf is based in history and poetry, but we're not being overly earnest here. Families can watch the series and it's really exciting. I love sci-fi, fantasy and The Lord of the Rings. Really I'm eight years old – I get to wear leather boots and a cape, so I can't be grumpy.'

NEW HISTORICAL DRAMA

War & Peace

Sunday, BBC1 HD, 9pm

Every epic drama has a pinch-me moment. For James Norton, it came while shooting a dance scene at night in Catherine the Great's summer palace in St Petersburg.

'I was standing in this huge hall bathed in candles,' explains the star. 'About 200 Russian extras were waltzing, while a live orchestra played at one end. It was amazing.'

War & Peace is one of the most lauded tales in literature, so it's pointless to do things by halves. The good news is that the BBC has pulled out all the stops for this new take on Leo Tolstoy's classic novel.

Filmed across Russia, Latvia and Lithuania, the series took six months to shoot, used 1500 hand-made costumes and features one of the biggest acting ensembles in TV.

Perhaps even more impressively, the novel's 1300-odd pages have been sliced to just six parts by screenwriter Andrew Davies. That's no mean feat given that the last BBC version in 1972 ran for 20 episodes. But the story doesn't suffer for it, Norton explains during a break in filming.

'Obviously, certain moments have been left aside and some of the big scenes have been whittled down, but nothing has really been lost. Andrew has given it a contemporary feel, which is great. But I think he's also captured the incredible tone.'

The story follows wealthy Russian families between 1805 and 1812, as the country prepares for invasion by Napoleon, one of many historical figures who feature in the tale.

At the centre are lonely military man Andrei Bolkonsky (Norton), awkward nobleman Pierre Bezukhov (Paul Dano), and guileless teenager Natasha Rostova (Lily James), a loveable but naive countess who will end up falling for both men – among others – as the story unfolds.

Given that Davies has described Natasha as 'possibly the most appealing heroine in literature', you could forgive James for feeling daunted by her role – and she was.

'I felt really nervous because she's this heroine of heroines,' says James. 'So I went back to see my old tutor at drama school and he said, "Come on, Lily, you just have to do it from the heart and soul".'

Playing the part also required the former Downton Abbey actress to master some difficult skills, including authentic Russian dancing and side-saddle horse riding.

Three previous adaptations of War & Peace...

● Audrey Hepburn and Henry Fonda played Natasha and Pierre in a 1956 Oscar-nominated adaptation directed by King Vidor.

● The four-part Oscar-winning 1966 film by Soviet director Sergei Bondarchuk used 12,000 extras for the battle scenes.

● The first BBC adaptation came in 1972 with a Bafta-winning 20-part serial starring Anthony Hopkins.

But the weirdest encounter was with a jar of live leeches.

'I was supposed to be lying in bed with these leeches on my arms and I couldn't stop giggling. But I had to wear long sleeved costumes for the next week because they really bled.'

Leeches aside, the biggest challenges were the battle scenes. On the day that TV&Satellite Week is on set in Lithuania, there are 200 extras in Russian uniforms.

'There are just so many elements to put into place – the horses, the background artists, the soldiers, the special effects,' says producer Julia Stannard. 'Saving Private Ryan has been our reference for those scenes, and a lot of our stunt team were involved with that film. It would be hard to get the scale of their opening sequence, but I hope we'll be delivering something similar.'

As right as Raine

There's been no stopping Jessica Raine since leaving Call the Midwife...

NEW PERIOD DRAMA

Jericho

Thursday, ITV HD, 9pm

Leaving such a popular show as Call the Midwife could have been a big risk for Jessica Raine.

Fortunately for the 34-year-old actress, she hasn't been out of work since. After spells in Fortitude, Line of Duty and Wolf Hall, she's back on our screens this week in ITV's gripping new period drama Jericho.

Set in Yorkshire in the 1870s, among a community that has grown up around an area where a huge railway viaduct is being constructed, the drama centres on mother-of-two Annie Quaintain, played by Raine, who moves to Jericho to start a new life when her schoolteacher husband dies.

At first, she is shocked to find thieves, vagabonds and prostitutes as her new neighbours. However, Annie soon becomes an integral part of the ramshackle community, where she sets up a boarding house for the labourers working on the railway and viaduct.

'Annie comes from a middle class background, but she's fallen on hard times,' explains Raine. 'The things that happen in Jericho are gritty and it's a tough, harsh world. But she's resourceful and realises she's good at being a businesswoman.'

As Annie settles in, there are sparks of romance with charismatic navy Johnny Jackson (Hans Matheson), and when he becomes one of her lodgers, they forge a connection following a shocking incident.

'Annie and Johnny are bonded by a terrible secret,' teases Raine. 'Love isn't what they're looking for at first, but they have chemistry.'

The drama has also given Raine the chance to work again with Clarke Peters, who appeared with her in BBC1's Partners in Crime last year and plays enigmatic railwayman Ralph Coates in Jericho.

'Annie has a cool relationship with Ralph. He helps her out at first, but she's very suspicious because this is a barter town – you don't get anything for free.'

The eight-part drama was inspired by a real shantytown that grew up around the Ribbleshead viaduct in Yorkshire. Raine hopes that it will be a fitting tribute to those who constructed railways and viaducts in the 19th Century.

'You drive past a huge railway viaduct now and your jaw drops to realise it was built in the 1800s,' she says. 'So I feel like this is a little doff of the cap because the working class of that time gets overlooked on TV.'

Another day in paradise

Kris Marshall returns for more Caribbean crime-solving

NEW CRIME DRAMA

Death in Paradise

Thursday, BBC1 HD, 9pm

Providing a much-needed tonic to the cold winter evenings, sun-soaked comedy drama Death in Paradise is back for a fifth series this week, as Kris Marshall returns as clumsy but capable inspector Humphrey Goodman to tackle more outlandish murders on the fictional isle of Saint-Marie.

TV&Satellite Week jetted out to Guadeloupe, the Caribbean archipelago where the series is filmed, to speak to Marshall about what's in store...

What can we expect from the new series? There are some brilliant murders this year – the writers have really thought outside the box. In the first episode, a group of people go scuba diving and the one person who stays on the boat ends up getting murdered. There is another story where a man is buried and then his phone sends a text to Humphrey's colleague Dwayne [Danny John-Jules] with the message 'I've been murdered' after he's dead. The whole show is kitsch and great fun.

Things are hotting up for the team on Saint-Marie

We hear Humphrey tries online dating? He's trying to get back on the scene, which is something he knows nothing about. He's been married before, but that was only because he went on a date that was set up by his mum...

Viewers were upset to see the departure of Sara Martins, who played Camille, last year. Were you disappointed that she left? Camille's exit was beautifully done and personally I'm glad Humphrey can stop trying to win her affections and concentrate on the cases. I was sad to see Sara go because she was a massive part of the series and an amazing actress, but it's good to keep things fresh.

James Fox appeared last year as Humphrey's dad, Martin. Might he return? I can absolutely imagine him coming back, and I'd love it. I mainly knew James through my friendship with his son Laurence Fox, but he didn't even know his dad was filming with me. They obviously don't talk about acting in the Fox family...

Could there be a role for Laurence in the next series? I'd love him to come out and play one of my high-flying brothers. We need to meet Humphrey's mum as well – she's an omnipresent spectre in his life. How about Miriam Margolyes?

You took over from Ben Miller two years ago and the show has gone from strength to strength. That must be satisfying...

I'm still absolutely thrilled, as it could have been an unmitigated disaster. But I like a risk and I thought I could bring something to the show. It's gone better than I could have hoped for, and I'm really pleased for the people who put their faith in me. I'm happy I didn't screw it up.

What's the secret to the show's success?

People love it because it's cosy, it doesn't take itself too seriously, and it's on in January when it's cold. I can see it continuing in the same way as shows like Midsomer Murders or My Family because it's got that same warmth. Granny can enjoy it with the little kids while they toast crumpets on the fire.

THE REAL SAINT-MARIE

- The series is filmed on French-speaking Guadeloupe, a chain of five islands in the West Indies.
- Saint-Marie's police station is actually an office belonging to a local priest in the region of Deshaies.
- Catherine's bar, where the police team often go for a celebratory beer, is a real hostelry, a short walk from the 'police station', right next to the beach.
- Humphrey's hut is a genuine location

Kris Marshall on location on a real beach, but sadly his housemate, Harry the lizard, is fake, created by CGI trickery.

Are there any downsides to filming in the Caribbean?

It's rewarding but it's also incredibly hard work, and it's challenging uprooting your family for six months. My son has grown up out here. He keeps saying, 'Yeah man!'

Endeavour Morse

Oxford blues

Endeavour is just out of prison and Thursday is a ticking time bomb – so what now for the tenacious two?

NEW CRIME DRAMA

Endeavour

Sunday, ITV HD, 8pm

Just how could the makers of ITV's period crime drama Endeavour leave us on tenterhooks for nearly two years with that shocking finale to the second series?

In the episode, Neverland, which aired in April 2014, offbeat Detective Constable Endeavour Morse, played by Shaun Evans, unearthed corruption within the top ranks of the Oxford Police.

But his investigation took a very sinister twist and we last saw him languishing in prison after being falsely accused of the murder of Chief Constable Rupert Standish.

And, as if that wasn't enough, the life of Endeavour's senior officer DI Fred Thursday (Roger Allam) was in the balance after he was shot by a corrupt Assistant Chief Constable.

So, when TV&Satellite Week was invited to visit the cast last June during filming for series three, which begins this week, we were delighted to see both Shaun Evans and Roger Allam back on the beat...

So where do we pick up the action in the first episode of the new four-part series?

Evans Three months have elapsed, and Endeavour has just come out of prison and is suspended from his duties. When I picked up the character after he was shot in the series one finale, he was in a slightly post-traumatic state of mind, but this time it's more ambivalence towards the force. So he's got back in touch with some very decadent and wealthy friends from his Oxford University days – the characters borrow heavily from The Great Gatsby – and is now staying in one of their cabins by a lake to reassess his options. He's going to parties every night. But then on the way to one party, he sees the body of a dead girl and is like 'Oh God!' It's the idea of 'You can't escape your destiny'.

And how is Thursday doing after being shot?

Allam A bit of the bullet has remained inside him. It makes him cough and he's been told it could get him at anytime because it could work its way to his heart. So he's got that sword hanging over his head.

The second story, Arcadia, sees Dakota Blue Richards join the cast as WPC Shirley Trewlove. What can you tell us about her?

Evans She's the first WPC we've had and Endeavour first meets her when he's investigating a man who's been burnt to death in his bed in a flat. Shirley's been talking to the neighbours and it's immediately clear to him that she's very bright, articulate and as smart as him.

Does her surname suggest romance is on the cards for them?

Allam Her surname is interesting, I don't know what it means but thus far there's certainly no romance, she's just a brilliant part of the team.

A GUIDE TO ENDEAVOUR III

Episode One Ride

Endeavour's disillusioned with the force after his spell in prison but is soon drawn back in to investigate after bus conductress Jeannie Hearne is murdered after visiting a local fairground.

Episode Two Arcadia

Ex-Skins star Dakota Blue Richards joins the ranks as sassy new WPC Shirley Trewlove when Endeavour investigates the death of a man in a house fire.

Episode Three Prey

A missing persons case has echoes of an investigation that Thursday worked on but failed to solve four years earlier. On the suspect list is a young chap called Philip Hathaway, played by Rob Callender, who turns out to be the father of Lewis's DS James Hathaway.

Episode Four Coda

Endeavour is asked to do some private detective work by an old college mentor, and he takes on a fearsome Oxford crime family.

Dakota Blue Richards joins as WPC Shirley Trewlove

NEW PANEL SHOW

Insert Name Here

Monday, BBC2 HD, 10pm
(NI, 11.15pm)

By her own admission, Sue Perkins hasn't got the most glamorous name in showbusiness.

'Well, it's not a name that speaks of greatness, is it?' she says. 'There isn't an illustrious history of Susans I can think of. Let me see, there's Susan Boyle and Susan Sarandon.'

'I think Susans of this world are behind the person who is leading. So a Susan would go, 'I'm very happy for you to go off and invent penicillin – I'm off to make a macramé scarf'.

Boring name or not, Perkins has become one of the most popular presenters on TV – from Great British Bake Off to Thronecast, the Game of Thrones sister show.

This week, she hosts BBC2's new panel show, Insert Name Here, alongside team captains Richard Osman and Josh Widdicombe.

Here, she tells us what to expect...

What's the show about? It's about famous people, past and present, who have one thing in common: they share the same name. Each week we take a name – say, George – and in the questions, anecdotes and jokes that emerge we'll cover everyone from George Clooney and Prince George, to George Michael and St George. It takes in science, history, art, music and popular culture which fits my slightly wayward, pinball brain perfectly.

Deutschland 83

Sunday, Channel 4 HD, 9pm

We've had Scandi noir and French cop shows, now it's Germany's turn to wow us with the Cold War drama Deutschland 83, the story of a young and naive East German spy sent to infiltrate the military in the West.

The series, which starts on Sunday on Channel 4 and All 4 (see panel right), is created by Anna and Jörg Winger, who wanted to remind viewers that Germany's history does not start and end with the world wars.

'Dramas about the Nazi era see everything go terribly wrong,' says Jorg. 'We really wanted to do something on the one chapter of 20th-century German history that has a happy ending – the lead-up to reunification.'

EAST vs WEST

Rising star Jonas Nay plays Martin, a soldier forced to become a spy when his aunt, Leonora (Maria Schrader), a high ranking East German intelligence officer, sends him on a mission to gather NATO secrets.

The actor was born in 1990, and admits that he and many Germans of his generation are ignorant of a time when capitalism and communism stood either side of a brutal dividing line.

'Germany has always been one country for me,' he says. 'I know more about World War Two than I do about the 1980s. But it was nice to get in touch with that time through my character.'

The reaction from German critics has been overwhelmingly positive, while the series also found a celebrity fan when it was shown in the US.

'Tom Hanks has been raving about it,' smiles Nay. 'You don't get praise like that every day.'

Nikki comes under suspicion of murder as Silent Witness returns for a new series

NEW FORENSICS DRAMA

Silent Witness

Monday & Tuesday, BBC1 HD, 9pm

As forensic pathologist Dr Nikki Alexander in Silent Witness, Emilia Fox has been helping the police catch killers for over a decade. But this week, as the BBC1 drama returns for a new 10-part series, the tables are turned when she becomes the prime suspect in a murder case.

Here, we ask the 41-year-old actress about Nikki's desperate fight to clear her name...

Nikki is called in to help with a case that looks like a suicide...

It has similarities with an older case she worked on, which she ruled a suicide. But because the two cases have striking similarities she starts to question her own judgement. The police then begin to suspect Nikki because of her involvement in both cases.

It was strange playing Nikki the murder suspect...

It was odd being on the other side of the table to the police who interrogate her. The more she tries to tell the truth, the more they feel she's not being straight with them.

An intruder enters Nikki's home in the first episode and I remember my parents were burgled once...

It's horrible and changes the whole atmosphere of the house. You become so paranoid about everything.

I've filmed over 100 episodes of Silent Witness... When I signed up originally I thought I'd be really lucky to make three series. It's testament to the series being about solving crimes in a slightly different way – through the bodies. We have an amazingly loyal audience and I still love doing it.

I'm going to appear in the second series of Sky1 thriller The Tunnel... I will be playing someone totally different from Nikki. It's lovely when a project like that comes along. I look for diversity because it's fun to play.

I'd be a disaster on Strictly Come Dancing...

I couldn't bear the judges being horrible. I'd fall apart and I think the people who take part are so brave. But I think David Caves [Jack in Silent Witness] should do it because he's such a good dancer.

NCIS star David McCallum on playing Ducky, writing his first crime novel, and Guy Ritchie's Man from UNCLE reboot...

NEW DRAMA

NCIS

Friday, FOX HD, 9pm

It's 6pm on a dark and miserable winter evening as TV&Satellite Week awaits a transatlantic phone call from David McCallum to discuss the new series of NCIS in which he plays pathologist Donald 'Ducky' Mallard.

The winter blues are quickly banished when the phone rings and McCallum introduces himself, his distinctive voice still revealing traces of his Scottish origins. The Glasgow-born actor, who starred with Robert Vaughn in the classic 1960s spy series The Man from UNCLE, and with Joanna Lumley in the 1979 sci-fi Sapphire & Steel, turned 82 last September, but still has the energy of a man half his age.

'It's wonderful to be so busy – life couldn't be better at the moment,' he says, as he prepares to tackle our questions...

David McCallum with Robert Vaughn in The Man from UNCLE

NCIS is now in its 13th season. What makes it so popular with viewers?

It's a show driven by fascinating characters and the fact that we deal with the military sets it apart from other shows. But also there's a good bit of comedy in there, too. It's not serious all the time.

What do you enjoy about playing Ducky?

Autopsy is a very interesting puzzle which means that nine times out of 10 I have to read up on various diseases or bullet wounds or whatever. It's a wonderful learning process for me.

Hawaii Five-0

David McCallum and co are back for a 13th series

You're 82 now. How do you cope with the demands of filming?

Oh, I just jump in, learn my lines and get on with it. Acting is always such a pleasure, especially on NCIS, and it gives me tremendous energy.

Tell us about the crime novel you've just written, Once a Crooked Man

It's taken me about 14 years to write; I just kept putting it in a drawer and taking it out again. It's a caper and Harry the central character gets into all sorts of terrible scrapes.

If your novel is successful, you might get the chance to make it into a TV drama or a movie. Does that appeal to you?

I think it would make a very good movie and there's already been discussions about just that. I take things as they come, but if we sell the film rights, that would be wonderful.

'It's wonderful to be so busy – life couldn't be better at the moment'

You've lived in America since the 1960s. Do you ever get back to your native Scotland?

I try to. In terms of my immediate family, I'm the last one left, but I have cousins who are living in Scotland and I try to see them as often as possible. However, the last 12 months have just been so, so busy.

You're perhaps best known for The Man from UNCLE. What did you make of Guy Ritchie's big-screen reboot?

I thought it was a highly commendable effort. It was a movie that gave audiences their money's worth although it had very little to do with the series Robert Vaughn and I made in the 1960s.

Were you disappointed not to have been offered a cameo?

No. That sort of thing becomes a trick: 'Oh look, there he is!' It just doesn't work. It becomes little more than a gimmick.

Do you keep in touch with Robert Vaughn?

I talked to him yesterday. I'd called him on his birthday but missed him so he was returning my call. I always phone him on his birthday. It's a good way to keep in touch.

US dramas round-up

The Gecko brothers battle the law and occult forces

From Dusk Till Dawn: The Series

Monday, Spike, 9pm

Pilot (1/10) & Blood Runs Thick (2/10) Based on Quentin Tarantino's horror movie and produced by the film's director Robert Rodriguez, this supernatural crime series centres on criminal brothers Richie (Zane Holtz) and Seth Gecko (DJ Cotrona) who rob a bank, leaving six people for dead, before having a stand-off with Texas Ranger Earl McGraw (Don Johnson). Pursued by the law and with a former minister (Robert Patrick) and his family as hostages, the brothers shelter at a strip club over the Mexico border, unaware that it's run by a sinister blood cult.

Manhattan

Tuesday, AMC, 9pm

You Always Hurt the One You Love (1/13) This 1940s-set drama is loosely based on the story of the Manhattan Project, which saw US scientists develop the world's first atomic bomb. The first episode, in which scientist Charlie Isaacs (Ashley Zukerman) and his wife Abby (Rachel Brosnahan) arrive in Los Alamos, New Mexico, to begin work on the project, will be available free of charge on BT Showcase (Freeview channel 59).

Charlie and Abby arrive in Manhattan

the Texas Revolution against Mexico. It begins after the Battle of the Alamo of 1836 when a ragtag band of Texas Rangers, under the command of General Samuel Houston (Paxton), set out to overthrow Mexican General Santa Anna (Martinez) despite seemingly impossible odds.

Castle

Tuesday, Alibi HD, 9pm

XY (1/22) The crime drama returns with a two-part story told from both Castle's and Beckett's perspectives. It's Beckett's first day as precinct captain but, after receiving a phone call, she disappears. As Castle begins searching for her, he becomes desperately concerned about her fate...

Remembering the musical genius and troubled life of Amy Winehouse

NEW PROFILE

Amy

Friday, Channel 4 HD, 9pm

'I don't think I'm going to be at all famous,' says a young Amy Winehouse in Asif Kapadia's outstanding documentary film Amy, which premieres on Channel 4 this week. 'I don't think I could handle it – I'd probably go mad.'

Released in cinemas earlier this year to critical acclaim, the feature-length film, which was assembled from 100 interviews, tells the moving story of the late London-born singer-songwriter in her own words, using archive footage of Winehouse and testimony from people who knew and worked with her.

THE TALENT

Kapadia, who previously directed a documentary film about Formula One driver Ayrton Senna, doesn't flinch from examining the much-reported addiction problems experienced by Winehouse, who was found dead at her north London home in July 2011, aged 27.

'If one looks carefully, there were lots of people who were aware of one thing – whether it was the drinking, the bulimia, or the drugs – and nobody stopped it,' says Kapadia, who has been criticised by Amy's father Mitch over the film. 'That's what Amy is really about. It's pretty heavy.'

At the same time, Amy is a joyful celebration of the huge talent of its subject as both a soulful singer and confessional songwriter, whose studio albums Frank and Back to Black became instant classics.

Too much too young

The Age of Loneliness

Thursday, BBC1 HD, 10.35pm

In 2014, a study into life in EU countries labelled Britain as the 'loneliness capital of Europe'. Director Sue Bourne travels around the UK to hear the stories of people whose lives have been blighted by loneliness, including 100-year-old Olive, and finds out what can be done to alleviate the problem.

You Make Me Feel Like Dancing

Tuesday, BBC2 HD, 9pm

In its heyday in the 1950s, Bolton's Palais de Danse was at the centre of the town's social scene. Now, choreographer Jack Murphy is on a mission to revive those glory days at the dance hall, as he attempts to convince a new generation to enjoy the waltz, tango and jive.

Immortal Egypt with Joann Fletcher

Monday, BBC2 HD, 9pm

The archaeologist presents a four-part history revealing how Egyptian civilisation evolved within a few hundred years from farming communities to the society that built the pyramids. She starts by visiting settlements along the Nile and explores Egypt's first pyramid.

Tony Bennett with Amy Winehouse

The film follows Winehouse from camera-shy but talented teenager through to her premature death, with on-screen song lyrics providing a poignant commentary on her career and private life – including her relationship with her father and her marriage to Blake Fielder-Civil.

Along the way there are electrifying performances, such as a duet with Tony Bennett, as well as meltdown moments, notably mobile phone footage of an ill-fated 2011 concert appearance in Belgrade. Despite her extreme vulnerability, however, Winehouse's infectious personality shines through.

THE SIGNS

A lot of the early film of the singer was obtained from her former manager Nick Shymansky, who says the documentary offers the chance to see the problems of the musical prodigy with the benefit of hindsight.

'Looking back years later, I realise that there was depression. That's something I learned from the film. There are lots of things, though, which I now look back on and think: "That was a sign".'

Griff's Great Britain

Griff Rhys Jones celebrates the wide variety of Britain's landscape via a series of unusual challenges

NEW TRAVELOGUE

Griff's Great Britain

Monday, ITV HD, 8pm

Two years ago, Griff Rhys Jones embarked on A Great Welsh Adventure for ITV, in which he explored his native Wales and took on a series of Celtic-themed challenges along the way.

Now, the 62-year-old is applying the same successful formula to the rest of the United Kingdom in the new eight-part series Griff's Great Britain, which starts this week in the South Downs, the undulating chalk hills stretching across England's south-eastern counties from Eastbourne to Winchester.

'We wanted to do a series about different types of landscape,' explains Rhys Jones, who made his name in comedies Not the Nine O'Clock News and Alas Smith and Jones before carving out a new career for himself as a presenter.

'What an extraordinarily varied landscape we have in Britain – from wolds, downs and lakes to moors, coasts and estuaries. Within six hours you can be in the Welsh mountains or wandering around the Scottish Highlands.'

Accordingly, the challenges he undertakes en route are designed to reflect his very different surroundings. His challenge in Essex, for example, is to eat a 'Colchester native' – which, thankfully, turns out to be an oyster.

As well as vampire-hunting in Yorkshire, Rhys Jones goes in search of dragons in the Welsh borders and tracks a golden eagle in the Scottish Highlands.

In the Lake District, he had a scary experience crossing a dizzying rope bridge in Cumbria.

'Effectively, it's a slack rope across a 2000ft gorge. It was terrifying,' he admits. 'There always seemed to be moments where I had to abseil or clamber. It's as if the production team were thinking: "How can we put Griff in a position where he will be absolutely terrified?"'

Leningrad and the Orchestra That Defied Hitler

Saturday, BBC2 HD, 9.10pm

Tom Service and Amanda Vickery tell the story of a remarkable concert which was performed by half-starved musicians while the city was being besieged by German forces on 9 August, 1942.

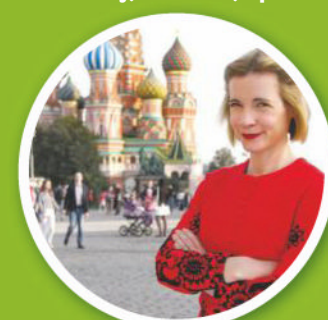

My Mediterranean with Adrian Chiles

Sunday, BBC2 HD, 9pm

Adrian Chiles, who is half-Croatian and became a Catholic nine years ago, embarks on a spiritual tour of the Mediterranean in which he experiences the area's religious festivals and finds out more about the Catholic, Muslim and Jewish faiths. He starts his journey in his mother's homeland of Croatia before heading to Jerusalem.

Woman in Gold

Helen Mirren plays a woman on a quest for justice in a real-life tale of art theft and escape from the Holocaust

REAL-LIFE DRAMA

Friday, Sky Premiere HD, 9.45am & 6pm/
Sky Premiere+1, 10.45am & 7pm ★★★

Helen Mirren turns on the cranky charm in a glossy movie that transforms the fascinating true story of an elderly woman's quest to retrieve artworks looted from her wealthy Jewish family by the Nazis into an uneven mix of historical thriller, courtroom drama and odd-couple comedy.

But while Mirren sparkles as the Viennese-born Maria Altmann, her co-star Ryan Reynolds is disappointingly bland as an American lawyer and the script isn't sharp enough to give their rapport the heart and humour that made Judi Dench and Steve Coogan's pairing in Philomena so engaging.

Mirren and Reynolds' mismatched-duo double act makes up half the film, as earnest young lawyer Randy Schoenberg (the grandson of composer Arnold Schoenberg) takes up Los Angeles resident Maria's cause in the late 1990s. They travel to Vienna but meet intransigence from the Austrian authorities when they try to reclaim her family's lost art, including the painting of the title, Gustav Klimt's dazzling 1907 portrait of her aunt, Adele Bloch-Bauer.

The visit stirs Maria's memories of her life in the city before she fled Austria as a young woman (played by Tatiana Maslany), and these flashback scenes – leading up to her escape from the Nazis as a rising tide of anti-Semitism engulfs the country – prove far more gripping and engrossing than the lacklustre latter-day episodes. 2015, 12, 109MIN

When a dead woman is discovered in a penthouse apartment, the five married men who share the pad for their illicit liaisons come under suspicion.

This cunning locked-room mystery thriller – an American remake by Belgian director Erik Van Looy of his 2008 film – keeps us guessing with an intricate flashback structure that shifts the doubt between the five men (played by Karl Urban, James Marsden, Wentworth Miller, Eric Stonestreet and Matthias Schoenaerts).

The plotting gets way too clever towards the end, but this is still a slick and stylish whodunnit. 2013, 15, 98MIN

As Vaughn's harassed family man, Wilkinson's frustrated sad sack and Franco's naive simpleton engage in implausible sexual shenanigans, the filmmakers pile on the raunchy mishaps, but when it comes to eliciting laughs they fail to seal the deal. 2015, 15, 91MIN

Robert Downey Jr is back as wisecracking billionaire inventor Tony Stark, aka superhero Iron Man. Gwyneth Paltrow also returns as Pepper Potts and Ben Kingsley plays a new adversary, The Mandarin – part Osama bin Laden, part Fu Manchu – a terrorist mastermind responsible for a series of bombings. But don't worry about the plot; it is Stark's snarky one-liners, delivered by Downey with a whip-cracking snap, that make the film a winner. 2013, 12, 130MIN

Spawning three sequels, Steven Spielberg's spectacular adaptation of Michael Crichton's bestseller about rampaging dinosaurs raised the bar for special effects when it came out in 1993. The film has its faults – the characters are paper-thin and the plot barely holds water – but the best scenes continue to evoke jaw-dropping awe. ★★★

The demonic entity from 2012's frightening Sinister returns with his gang of ghostly children to corrupt and consume more innocent souls. James Ransome's dopey deputy is also back, now playing protector to a runaway wife (Shannyn Sossamon) and her twin sons, and director Ciarán Foy provides enough scares to keep your nerves on edge. (15, 97min)

Paper Towns

Cara Delevingne transfers her quirky cool from the catwalk to the screen for her first leading film role, playing the free-spirited Florida teenager whose disappearance sends her dorky neighbour (Nat Wolff) and friends on a road trip across the States to find her. The mystery is engaging, although the mood is safe rather than edgy. (12, 116min)

The inevitable sequel to 2012's shamelessly rude buddy comedy about a Boston slacker and his living teddy bear chum has enough puerile fun to keep fans of the first film satisfied. Mark Wahlberg is back as stoner John and Seth MacFarlane again voices stuffed bear Ted, who finds himself caught up in a legal wrangle. (15, 116min)

Trainwreck

As writer and star of this raunchy romcom, American comedian Amy Schumer unleashes the drunken slut persona – a hard-partying New York singleton – from her cable TV comedy sketch series Inside Amy Schumer. Director Judd Apatow steers the film into familiar territory, but Schumer's taboo-busting japes still create quite a frisson. (15, 125min)

PDC World Darts Final

Sky Sports darts commentator Dave Clark looks back at five classic duels

LIVE DARTS

Saturday & Sunday, Sky Sports Darts HD

There'll be beers and cheers at London's Alexandra Palace on Sunday when this year's PDC world champion is decided over the best of 13 sets. Here, Sky Sports commentator Dave Clark selects his five favourite PDC finals from previous years...

2003 John Part 7-6 Phil Taylor

Taylor had won the last eight world titles, a remarkable unbeaten run. Part, who now works in the Sky commentary booth, managed to keep his cool to win. That was a significant year for me. I wasn't commentating as my first son had just been born, so I was at home, watching on the sofa with a baby in my arms.

2004 Phil Taylor 7-6 Kevin Painter

Taylor bounced back the next year, despite trailing throughout the match. He just put his foot on the gas and it went to another last-set decider. In the first leg, he threw just 45, and you thought that was the end of him, but he managed to get back and win. Painter was never within touching distance of the final again.

2007 Raymond van Barneveld 7-6 Phil Taylor

Barney had moved over from the BDO after winning their world championship two years before, so it was a question of "Who's the governor?". We had record viewing figures and that final really put darts on the map. It was the last year at the Circus Tavern as well, so a fitting way to say goodbye to an iconic darts venue.

2013 Phil Taylor 7-4 Michael van Gerwen

Taylor had been knocked out in round two in 2012, and some thought his time was over. He looked like he was out when the Dutchman went 4-2 up. But he clawed his way back to defeat the 23-year-old who had won their previous two meetings.

2015 Gary Anderson 7-6 Phil Taylor

Taylor was trailing again in this one, as he often is in the final, but fought back from 3-1 and 6-4 down to level at 6-6 – only for Anderson to breeze through the final set to win his first world title. It was only Taylor's fourth defeat in 20 world championship finals.

MEANWHILE AT LAKESIDE

As the PDC World Championship comes to an end over the weekend, the rival BDO World Championship gets underway at the Lakeside Country Club, Frimley Green (from Saturday, BBC1 HD & BBC2 HD). Number one seed Glen Durrant, who may switch to the more lucrative PDC circuit in 2016, faces Dean Reynolds in the first round, while current BDO champion Scott Mitchell takes on a qualifier.

BBC presenter Mark Chapman picks his potential giant-killings

LIVE FOOTBALL

Exeter City v Liverpool

Friday, BBC1 HD, kick-off 7.55pm

The Premier League and Championship giants will be out to avoid a slaying as the FA Cup Third Round kicks off on Friday night with Exeter City v Liverpool. Here, the BBC's Mark Chapman picks out his favourite ties...

Exeter City v Liverpool

Everyone has taken to Liverpool boss Jürgen Klopp because he looks like he is having fun – and I can't see the League Two side wiping the smile from his face. With the likes of Christian Benteke up front, Liverpool have too much firepower, though Exeter took Manchester United to a replay in 2005 and they could do the same again.

Wycombe Wanderers v Aston Villa

Of all the third-round ties, this is the one most likely to see a Cup upset. Villa are having plenty of problems in the league, and will be tested by a Wycombe side that just missed out on promotion to League One last season. At the risk of alienating Villa fans, I would love Wycombe to go on a Cup run.

Eastleigh v Bolton Wanderers

There will be a lot of attention on non-league Eastleigh, who defeated Stourbridge in the last round. Bolton have won the Cup four times, but are struggling at the bottom of the Championship and in trouble financially. In fact, both clubs could do with a lucrative Cup run.

Newport County v Blackburn Rovers

Rovers have a proud Cup history, having won the trophy six times. They are undergoing a revival in the Championship under Paul Lambert, but won't fancy the trip to South Wales. It's the League Two club's first third-round appearance since 1985-86 and they will be hugely motivated.

FA Cup Third Round

Exeter beat Port Vale 2-0 to reach this year's third round

Andy Murray

LIVE TENNIS

Hopman Cup

From Sunday, Eurosport 2 HD & Eurosport 1 HD, 4pm

Andy Murray will try to lead GB to another trophy when he teams up with Heather Watson for the Hopman Cup in Perth this week.

It is the pair's second consecutive appearance at the tournament which features mixed teams playing singles and doubles rubbers.

Murray and Watson will play in Group B against Australia Green (one of two Australian teams), Germany and France, while Group A favourites are the American pairing of Serena Williams and Jack Sock.

LIVE MOTORSPORT

Dakar Rally

From Saturday, Eurosport 1 HD

Sébastien Loeb, the most successful driver in World Rally Championship history, makes his debut in this year's Dakar Rally when he's joined by long-time co-driver Daniel Elena in their Peugeot 2008 DKR. The rally – which features separate races for cars, trucks, motorbikes and quads – gets underway in Buenos Aires before taking a 9000km route through Argentina and Bolivia.

England's Stuart Broad

LIVE CRICKET

South Africa v England: Second Test

From Saturday, Sky Sports 2 HD, 8am

South Africa and England meet at Newlands in Cape Town on Saturday for the second Test of the tour.

The sides drew at the stadium in 2010 when England's last-wicket pair of Graeme Swann and Graham Onions saved the match by surviving 17 balls. Alastair Cook, Stuart Broad and James Anderson are the only survivors from that team.

James Corden and co get set for more stunts and trivia

A League of Their Own

COMEDY Sky 1 HD, Thursday 7 January, 9pm

NEW SERIES

Match-fit and raring to go, James Corden is reunited with A League of Their Own boys Jamie Redknapp, Freddie Flintoff and Jack Whitehall as the 10th outing of the Bafta award-winning series gets off to a flying start – and celebrates its 100th episode. Whether it's ski-jumping in the studio or dangerous dodgeball, no challenge is too great for the team regulars. This week West Ham striker Andy Carroll, comedian David Walliams and former Spice Girl Melanie C join in the hilarious stunts, fun banter and sports-themed trivia. Later in the series, Corden and co welcome Jimmy Carr, Noel Fielding and Ricky Ponting.

DRAMA Sky 1

EDITOR'S CHOICE

If you missed this Christmas's gloriously gross family drama starring Timothy Spall, Victoria Wood and Keeley Hawes, catch up with all three episodes on demand. Inspired by Raymond Briggs' much-loved characters, it's the magical story of Fungus, his wife Mildew and their son Mould: three Bogeys who are forced to live among the 'Drycleaners' of Daventry when Mould grows dangerously curious about human life. As Fungus makes things go bump in the night, it's a treat for all the family.

COMEDY

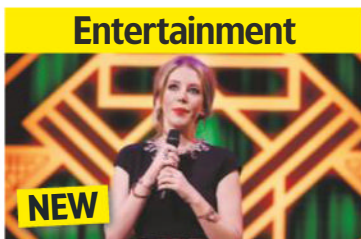

It's never easy being one of the Dunphy kids

Modern Family

COMEDY Seasons 1-6

BOX SET

From teenage growing pains to Valentine's Day mishaps, this multi-award-winning US comedy offers up a very modern slice of family life, as it follows the hilarious and heart-warming ups and downs of the Pritchett-Dunphy-Tuckers. It stars Julie Bowen and Ty Burrell as Claire and Phil Dunphy (above), but has also made a household name of Sofia Vergara, whose role as fiery Gloria has made her the joint highest-paid actress on American television.

All Aboard Thomas Kinkadee's Christmas Express

Locomotive & Cars Light Up

Joyously decked with festive scenes by Thomas Kinkadee (cars 1-4 shown)

Thomas Kinkadee's Christmas Express is the FIRST-EVER electric train featuring Thomas Kinkadee's art, and it is beautifully embellished with Thom's heartwarming, old-fashioned Christmas scenes. Further enhanced with bows, holly, and wreath motifs, this heirloom-quality train has impeccably authentic details including a headlight on the steam locomotive and passenger cars that actually light up!

Begin the series with Set One*, the Steam Locomotive and Tender

The Thomas Kinkadee Christmas Express illuminated electric train set series starts with Set One, the Steam Locomotive and Coal Tender. With its precision detailing and festive motif accents, the 2-6-0 engine looks incredible. Soon you can look forward to adding co-ordinating Thomas Kinkadee's Christmas Express passenger cars – and FREE nickel silver tracks at regular intervals. Now all you need do is set up the tracks; plug in the power pack; add a quick cry of 'All aboard!'

and watch in delight as the train bursts into life. The drama and wonder only increase at night as the train rolls along the tracks with its engine headlight illuminating the way, and the carriage windows aglow with welcoming light.

Even if you're not a railway buff you will appreciate the extraordinary wealth of authentic detail devoted to every inch of this heirloom quality ON30 scale train – from the engine's cowcatcher and brass bell, to the working doors on the mail car. Brimming with festive spirit, here's your chance to welcome the Christmas Express to your home.

You can begin your Thomas Kinkadee's Christmas Express series with the Steam Locomotive and Tender for four monthly instalments of £19.99 – that's just £79.96 (plus £9.99 s&h). Simply complete and return the Reservation Application today. Further cars in the series will be despatched at monthly intervals and will be billed at the same attractive price.

Houdini & Doyle

FIRST LOOK

Michael Weston and Stephen Mangan play the ultimate crime-fighting partnership in a high-octane period drama

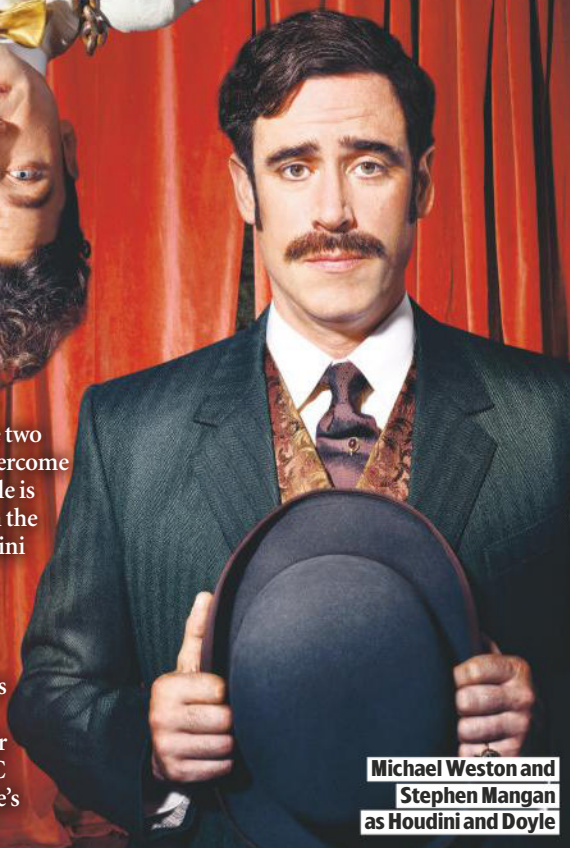

Check out these first pictures from ITV Encore's 10-part supernatural period drama Houdini & Doyle.

The series, which will air in the spring, sees Episodes' Stephen Mangan as Sherlock Holmes creator Arthur Conan Doyle and House and Six Feet Under's Michael Weston as celebrated illusionist Harry Houdini.

Executive-produced by House creator David Shore, the quirky drama is set in the early 20th Century and is based on the real-life friendship between the two men. It sees the pair overcome their differences – Doyle is a passionate believer in the paranormal and Houdini is an avowed sceptic – to help Scotland Yard solve a range of unexplained crimes.

Tim McInnerny stars as Inspector Horace Merring and newcomer Rebecca Liddiard as PC Stratton, the Met Police's first female officer.

FIRST LOOK

Luke Cage

Luke Cage is the latest action-packed series to be inspired by Marvel comics. The drama, which will air on Netflix in 2016, sees The Good Wife's Mike Colter play the titular crime-fighting ex-con with superhuman strength. Colter recently appeared as Cage in Jessica Jones, and Luke Cage will also see Rosario Dawson reprise her Daredevil and Jessica Jones role as Claire Temple.
